SECOND ARTICLE APPEARS IN EDUCATIONAL REVIEW.

Reflections Upon Those Whom Superintendent Chancellor Refused to Reappoint.

It is stated that the question of authorship of an anonymous article on the public school system of this city, published about two months ago in the Educational Review of New York, has by no means been dropped by the citizens, who resented the severe adverse criticism of District officials and governmental methods contained in the article. Ever since its appearance the name of Superintendent Chancelor has been persistently connected with it, this fact being due, no doubt, to his admission that he was consulted by its author and to the similarity between its style and that of the ALLEGED OPPOSITION TO THE PRESIDENT GENERAL.

As regards politics in the Daughters of the American Revolution, it is said to be a Delivery of Goods in Great Varietywell-known fact that there is no concerted attempt to defeat Mrs. Donald McLean. It is declared, however, that a number of women have organized to keep the election of the president general from being unanimous, as it is stated it would be if the members of the national board resident in Washington "would keep hands off." It was rumored in D. A. R. circles yesterday McLean's support. Such action, it was stated to a Star reporter, would be displeasing to Mrs. Fairbanks, who is reported o have stated that she would not be a candidate for president general. Mrs. Fairbanks left the capital yesterday. She will go direct to Indianapolis, and will not return for the congress.

Finding that Mrs. Fairbanks was not available, the ladies opposed to Mrs. Mc-Lean, it is explained, turned to Mrs. Forwife of Senator Foraker, and reo her home

It is said by some that had the District Daughters, at their annual conference last week, seen fit to continue upon the national board, women who have been from the inof the society, holding national offices there would be no opposition to Mrs. McLean.

Case of Alleged Non-Support.

In his investigation of a case of alleged non-support in the Juvenile Court yesterday Judge De Lacy found a family of twelve persons living on an income of $44.50 per month. The charge was preferred against Jacob

F. Rose, a grave digger in Glenwood cemetery, whose home is at 1325 3d street southeast. The wife had not complained until the $35 per month, brought in by her husband, began to fail. Judge De Lacy ordered the husband before him. The family includes eight children, all under sixteen years of age, the father and mother, the mother's mother and brother. The brother had been out of work since

Christmas, and, while he ate at his sister's table he furnished her only about $1.50 per month. The grandmother receives a pension of $8 per month, which she con-tributed to the family uses. The husband earns $1.80 per day, averaging about $35 per month. There was some disagreement between
